

ABOUT
Kingsley R. Chin, M.D.
 Managing Partner & CEO, KICVentures

Dr. Chin emigrated from Jamaica in 1984 with $47 in his pocket to attend Columbia University on a soccer scholarship. Being the first in his family to attend college, he set out to prove himself capable of achieving the highest level of success at every level. He excelled as a scholar athlete and was the Ivy League Player of the Year, President of his Senior Class and membership in the Electrical Engineering Honors Society Eta Kappa Nu. He gained business experience working at AT&T Bell Labs, Accenture Consulting, Cigna Insurance, and Goldman Sachs prior to graduating from Harvard Medical School with honors and 4 diplomas. He is a board-certified and double fellowship-trained orthopedic spine surgeon. Dr. Chin loves to teach and mentor believing that it keeps him sharp and looking beyond himself. He spent 4 years teaching at the University of Pennsylvania as Chief of Spine Surgery before committing himself full-time to being the Managing Partner & CEO of KICVentures. He spends up to 10% of his time teaching as a Professor and in clinical practice and research. For the past 10 years his focus has been managing funds with KICVentures deploying $190 million to build a portfolio estimated at $1 billion. Dr. Chin sees a niche opportunity where medicine, business and information technology meet and is uniquely experienced at the intersection of these three professions.

- +300 authored scientific publications, lectures & presentations
- +40 issued patents globally
- Invited to speak about entrepreneurship, medical innovation & business skills
- Host of 'Prove Yourself Radio' x102.3 in Florida
- Married with three children

